FIREMEN'S MEETING IS INTERESTING

Committees Were Appointed to Investigate Various Matters

WANT PERMANENT PLACE

At a regular meeting of the Antioch Fire department Tuesday evening the usual order of business was carried through until the president said the words "reports from committees," then affairs differed somewhat from the ordinary.

At a recent meeting a committee of three, Wm. Christian, Frank Palmer and P. O. Hawkins, had been appointed to appear before our village board for the purpose of making suggestions regarding the hiring of the village marshal, but as they were not yet ready to do so, their report was not forth coming, this being the case motions were made and seconded that the same committee act on the question of getting some building for the department. And when they said "get a building," they meant a permanent place with the keys to be in their own possession, for the firemen know from experience they have had, that if the place for keeping the apparatus isn't under lock and key every Tom, Dick and Harry will take advantage when they need a lantern, piece of hose, or ladder. This same committee with the assistance of Art Rosenfeldt is to investigate the so much talked of gasoline engine at the pump house and report on same.

After this committee got their instructions, new business was taken up and a committee appointed to install the motor and equipment for ringing the fire bell.

The strong vote of the department in regards to the actions which will be taken by the committee before the village board indicates that they will get what they are going after or every fireman that wears a hat will turn in same, withdrawing his name from the list of those who have banded themselves together to protect the property of every resident of the village and when the set time is given there won't be enough firemen left in Antioch to put out a bonfire.

The firemen have been organized three years last March and this is the first time they have had to take care of business outside of their own department. They have had troubles of their own to fight and business to take care of which has kept them occupied all the time, but it is their intention now, to act for the best interests of the public. To give attention to conditions which involve public welfare, as well as to respond to the first tap of the fire bell.

Sure Scheme.

Young Wife—"I am determined to learn at what hour my husband comes home at night. Yet, do what I will, I cannot keep awake, and he is always careful not to make a particle of noise. Is there any drug which produces wakefulness?" Old Wife—"No need to buy drugs. Sprinkle the floor with tacks."

CREDITORS ARE GIVEN HA HA BY ROUND LAKE MAN

Giving his creditors his best wishes via silent treatment, Ben Bronson, who for the past four years operated the Rogers' farm in the vicinity of Round Lake, packed his family and such effects as are necessary for a touring trip. In the tonneau of the Ford he bought on the installment plan from Rosing & Thelen and upon which he had made only two partial payments, left Sunday morning for parts unknown.

The total amount of indebtedness is about $5,000. Mismanagement is the common verdict of Mr. Bronson's failure to cope with his crowding problems. His rent was overdue, the cows were mortgaged to the limit and the notes which several of the neighbors held for money loaned also were due. Not knowing how he could relieve the tremendous pressure which was crowding him worse every day he cleverly planned a perfect getaway. From Rosing & Thelen he purchased a Ford touring car, a car which Mr. Rosing enthusiastically urged would go anywhere and everywhere with minimum trouble. Mr. Bronson quickly responded that was what he was looking for, made a small partial payment and secured possession. The hired help on the farm were informed Sunday that he was going away for a few days and if they would stay until his return he would increase their wages. They agreed and today they are wondering how they will get their money for services rendered the last three months. It seems that when Mr. Bronson saw the end coming he turned everything into cash that he possibly could lay his hands on. He changed the stock so that the mortgage on the same is materially effected.

OTTO LOOF IS VICTIM OF HEAT

The extreme heat of Saturday last is responsible for the death of a well known resident of this community, Otto Loof, of Grass Lake.

He had been out in the blazing sun a greater portion of the day, and was considerably warmed up when he left the house near six o'clock to bring the cows from the pasture. Soon after his departure, his mother glancing from the window saw him stagger and fall. She also saw one of the neighbors passing by and hurrying out she told him of her son having fallen. Hastening to his side they saw at once that he was a victim of the heat and that his condition was critical. He was carried to the house and a physician was sent for. But although every known remedy was applied he passed away in a very short time.

The deceased was born at Grass Lake and was forty-two years of age. He is survived by his aged father and mother and his brother Fred.

The funeral services were held at the home Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock with Rev. J. E. Gorman of the German Lutheran church of Wilmet officiating.

HINTS ON CARE OF INFANTS

As Given Out By Health Commissioner, Dr. John A. Turner

PROTECT THE LITTLE ONES

Bathing—For the first few months the bath should be given at 98 deg. F. the room should be warm, preferably there should be an open fire. The bath should be short and the body dried quickly without too vigorous rubbing. The addition of salt to the bath is an advantage where the skin is unusually delicate or excoriations are present, one large handful of salt should be used to a gallon of water.

For infants of six months the temperature of the bath, provided the child is healthy should be reduced to 95 deg. F. by the end of the first year 90 deg. F. During childhood the warm bath is preferably given at night. If a child does not react after the bath; that is if the child is pale, slightly blue about the lips and under the eyes, all tub bathing especially cold bathing should be stopped, since continuance can only be a drain upon the child's vitality, instead a short sponge bath of from 98 deg. to 95 deg. F. should be employed.

Clothing—The clothing of infants should be light, warm, nonirritating to the skin and loose enough to allow free motion of the extremities; nor should bands be pinned so tightly about the trunk as to embarrass the movements either of the chest or of the abdomen.

The chest should be covered with a wollen shirt high in the neck and with long sleeves, all petticoats should be supported from the shoulders and not from waist bands.

During the summer the outer clothing should be light and the under clothing of the thinnest flannel or gauze. The changes in the temperature of morning and evening may be met by extra wraps. The custom of allowing young children to go with legs bare has many enthusiastic advocates; while it may not be objectionable during the heat of summer, its advantages at any season are very questionable in a changeable climate, many delicate children are certainly injured by such ill advised attempts at hardening.

The night clothing of infants should be similar to that worn during the day, but should be loose, the material being of the lightest flannel. The night clothing for older children should consist of a thin wollen shirt and a union suit and in some cases with feet, if there is a tendency to get outside the coverings. The common mistake is to overload all children, especially infants, with covering at night. This is an explanation of much of the restless sleep which is seen, particularly in delicate children.

Care of the Teeth—The baby teeth as well as those of the permanent set should receive daily attention. Too often they are neglected altogether. Dirty teeth are likely sooner or later to become carious; and carious teeth, besides being a cause of bad breath and neuralgia are a constant menace to the health of the child since they may harbor infectious germs of all varieties. Such teeth should receive the attention of your dentist and either be filled or removed.

General Hygiene of the Nervous System—Great injury is done to the nervous system of children during infancy, especially during the first year. The brain grows more during the first two years than in all the rest of life. Normal healthy development of the nervous centres demands quiet, rest, peaceful surroundings and freedom from everything which causes excitement or undue stimulation.

The steadily increasing frequency of nervous diseases among young children is one of the most powerful arguments for greater attention by physicians to the subject of the hygiene of the nervous system during infancy. Most parents err through ignorance. Playing with young children, stimulating to laughter and exciting them by sights, sounds or movements, until they shriek with amusement to fond parents and admiring spectators, but it is almost invariably an injury to the child. This is especially harmful when done in the evening. Parents should see that all such playing and romping as has been referred to shall, during the first year at least be a solutely prohibited.

Dr. J. A. Turner,
Health Commissioner.

SUICIDES BY HANGING SELF TO RAFTERS OF CABIN

On last Thursday evening when J. W. Nelson missed his father-in-law and going to the cottage where he lived near by, saw a form dangling in the darkness, and lighting a match, he saw it was his father-in-law.

Nels Elefsen, one of the men who took part in the famous Haymarket riot, Chicago in 1887, and who all these years had been an avowed Socialist, had hung himself to one of the rafters of his little home.

For nine years Elefsen had lived in the cottage and he therefore was a familiar character about the lake region. He lived alone, his wife having died many years ago.

It was about 8 o'clock when his body was discovered and it was cold in death, they had no idea when he had ended his life but the conclusion was he had done so early in the day. He had taken a substantial rope and after fastening it to the rafter and then to his neck, had stepped from a chair on which he stood while making the knots fast.

Elefsen was 66 years of age and his neighbors recall now his detailed account many times of having been in the famous riot in Chicago where several policemen and anarchists were killed and later as a result of it some of the anarchists who took part were hanged or sent to prison. The inquest held by Coroner Taylor brought a verdict of death by suicide.

The remains were interred at the Antioch Hillside cemetery Sunday afternoon.

GRAYSLAKE FARMER DIED SUNDAY FROM PARALYSIS

Geo. Kapple of Grayslake who last fall sustained a stroke of paralysis died Sunday morning as a result of succeeding strokes of the disease, which first attacked him last September. Until the time of his affliction Mr. Kapple had conducted a farm east of Grayslake for several years.

A few months ago his wife, who had nursed him since his illness died suddenly of heart failure, her death coming as a surprise.

Mr. Kapple was a brother-in-law of Mrs. Josephine Harden and J. W. Van Duzer, of this place and he also has a number of other relatives in this vicinity several of whom attended the funeral services Tuesday.

TWO WARSHIPS SUNK FIGHT IN THE BALKANS

BRITISH CRUISERS NOTTINGHAM AND FALMOUTH TORPEDOED BY U-BOATS.

SUBMARINE IS DESTROYED

English Vessels Were Searching for German Fleet in the North Sea—Berlin Says Two Boats Were Sunk and Two Damaged.

London, Aug. 22.—Two British light cruisers, the Nottingham and Falmouth, were sunk on Saturday in the North sea by German submarines while the vessels were searching for the German high seas fleet, according to an official announcement issued by the admiralty on Sunday.

One German submarine was destroyed by the British, while another was rammed and possibly sunk.

A German squadron of some fifteen warships, including large cruisers, is reported in the North sea by trawlers arriving at Ymuiden, Holland, a Reuter dispatch says.

The squadron was sighted early Saturday in the region of White Bank and was accompanied by two Zeppelins. It was on a northwesterly course. This is believed to be the squadron the British were searching for.

The admiralty statement follows: "Reports from our lookout squadrons and other units showed that there was considerable activity on the part of the enemy in the North sea on Saturday, the 19th.

"The German high seas fleet came out, but learning from their scouts that the British forces were in considerable strength, the enemy avoided an engagement and returned to port.

"In searching for the enemy we lost two cruisers by submarine attacks, H. M. S. Nottingham, Capt. C. B. Miller and H. M. S. Falmouth, Capt. John Edwards.

"All the officers of the former were saved, but 38 of the crew were missing. All the officers and men of the Falmouth were saved, but one leading stoker, Norman Fry, died of injuries. "An enemy submarine was destroyed, and another was rammed and possibly sunk.

"There is no truth in the German statement that a British destroyer was sunk and a British battleship damaged."

(The Nottingham was a vessel of 5,400 tons and was built in Pembroke in 1913. Its complement was 380 men. The Falmouth was 5,250 tons. It was built in 1910 and carried a crew of 370 officers and men.)

Berlin, Aug. 22, by wireless to Smyville, N. Y.—Announcement was made by the German admiralty that a German submarine operating off the east coast of England torpedoed and sank a small cruiser and damaged a battleship and a small cruiser. The statement follows:

"A German submarine on the British east coast on August 19 destroyed a small cruiser and a destroyer of the enemy. Another small cruiser and a battleship were struck by torpedoes and damaged."

13 DEAD IN TEXAS STORM

Property Loss Estimated at $2,000,000—Towns Are Stricken With Debris.

Corpus Christi, Tex., Aug. 22.—The loss of life from the tropical storm which struck Corpus Christi and ten adjacent south Texas counties on Friday night, was placed at 13 on Sunday, including nine members of the crew of the small freighter Pilot Boy, which foundered off the Aransas pass jetties.

Two Mexican men and one Mexican woman were killed at Katherine, a settlement on the King ranch, near Alice, Tex., and one Mexican was reported killed at San Diego. Both towns are from fifty to sixty miles inland.

The total damage in this section, of which Corpus Christi bore the heaviest part, was estimated at $2,000,000. This includes devastation of a large portion of the lower coast's cotton crop, which was ready to be picked.

The storm apparently already has spent its force over southwestern Texas, where comparatively little damage was done, according to reports here.

G. A. Gates of Dallas, general manager in Texas for the Southwestern Telegraph and Telephone company, arrived at Corpus Christi from Rockport. He says scarcely a building escaped damage and a number, including the city hall, were demolished.

ALLIES START GENERAL OFFENSIVE ON THE SALONIKI FRONT.

BULGARS LOSE FIRST LINE

Serbs Victors on the Left Wing, But Lose Town of Banica—Italians Land to Aid Entente.

London, Aug. 23.—A general offensive along the entente Saloniki front was launched by the allies, according to a French war office statement. The Serbians have captured the Bulgarian first line on the left of the battle front, but have lost the town of Banica, south of Florina.

On the center and right wing heavy fighting is in progress. The British-French forces have crossed the Struma and are attacking Bulgarian positions northwest of Seres. The statement follows:

"On August 20 the allied forces in Saloniki took the offensive on the entire front. On the right wing the Anglo-French forces have crossed the Struma and are attacking the enemy on the Kavakli-Kalendera-Topolisva front (northwest of Seres). They are in contact with a position strongly held by the enemy at Barakli (eight kilometers southwest of Demir-Hissar).

"In the center violent artillery actions are taking place on the southern slope of the Beles mountains and on both banks of the Vardar. In the region extending from Lake Dolran to the Vardar the allies have consolidated positions occupied on the preceding day.

"On the left wing in the mountainous region between the Cerna and Moglenica rivers the Serbian troops have taken the first-line trenches of the Bulgarians on the heights of Kikuruz and have occupied the forts of Kalmakalar.

"On the extreme left, after inflicting heavy losses on the Bulgarians debouching from Florina on Banica, they had to abandon this latter place and have established themselves on heights situated to the east. The battle is continuing."

Italian troops began to disembark at Saloniki, says a Havas dispatch from that point, and immediately passed through Saloniki to the entente line of operations.

The fourth Greek army corps, which had divisions at Seres, at Kavala and also at Drama, has fallen back before the Bulgarians, who are advancing in eastern Macedonia. The Bulgarians have occupied Hermanli and have crossed the Nestos (Mesta) river and advanced to a point seven miles from Kavala.

In the fighting at Moglen the Bulgarians, according to a Paris dispatch received here, had 400 killed, 600 wounded and 43 were taken prisoners. The Berlin war office statement reads:

"South and southwest of Florina we gained the Vici hill and Malareka ridge. East of Banica the Serbian positions on the Malka Nizetaplina were stormed. All efforts of the enemy to recapture Dnielet Jeri were fruitless.

"Near Gumnien a weak enemy attack was beaten off. Southeast of Lake Dolran spirited artillery duels are in progress."

JAPAN GETS CANAL LAND

Nipponese Said to Have Obtained Grant Through Panama Official—Lansing Starts Probe.

Washington, Aug. 23.—Investigation of reports from Panama that a 60,000-acre land concession at the Atlantic end of the canal is being sought by a Spaniard named Fernandez presumably for Japanese interests, was ordered by Secretary Lansing.

The present reports are that Fernandez, Havana agent for Japanese interests, obtained a 60,000-acre land concession through the activity of Ramon Valdes, whose recent election to the presidency of Panama may possibly be disputed by the United States because of alleged frauds and coercion.

Admiral Conens of the Spanish navy, selected by the Panama government as umpire to settle the dispute with the United States over the purchase price of canal property, is alleged to have given very valuable information about the canal itself.

BOND ISSUE IS ASKED ADVANCE ON SOMME

U. S. NEEDS $130,000,000 TO MEET MEXICO BILLS.

Additional Funds Requested in Report of Finance Committee Filed in the Senate.

Washington, Aug. 10.—A bond issue of $130,000,000 to meet extraordinary government expenditures due to the Mexican situation was unexpectedly recommended to congress on Thursday night by majority members of the senate finance committee, with the concurrence of the treasury department. The bond issue is urged in the report of the finance committee Democrats, filed in the senate, on the $205,000,000 revenue bill. In addition to the proposed issue and the revenue bill the finance committee asserts a further appropriation of $30,000,000 will be necessary to defray the expense of operations in the Mexican emergency if conditions on the border continue as they are now at December 31, 1918.

The $130,000,000 to be provided by the proposed bond issue, the report says, will meet Mexican expenditures only until the end of this calendar year.

Accompanying the finance committee majority's report submitted by Senator Simmons was a general statement from the treasury department, estimating disbursements for the fiscal year 1917 at $1,120,243,000 and surplus $762,000,000.

Mistook Brother of King for Jap—Attempted to Enter Honolulu Without Showing Papers.

San Francisco, Aug. 10.—Prince Mahidol Songkla, brother of the king of Siam, who has arrived here from the far East, was mistaken for a Japanese at Honolulu and roughly handled, he said, by a United States customs officer. Minister Karavongse of Siam, who came here from Washington to meet the prince, declared he would take the matter up through the state department.

"But don't be disturbed," the prince said when the minister expressed his indignation. "We will not declare war over this. It was a mistake and I hope my assailant will not lose his position. I was rescued by my fellow passengers."

The prince said that he went ashore at Honolulu from the Tenyo Maru and was stopped by a customs inspector, who said Japanese were not allowed ashore before their papers had been examined.

"He refused to listen to my explanation of who I was, turned a deaf ear to my declaration that I had papers to establish my identity and suddenly attacked me with his fists, of which he made good use. I was wedged between two women and could not defend myself for fear of hurting them."

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 22.—Mrs. Orlando Stowe, fifty-five years old, was killed, and her husband and daughter were injured when their automobile went into a ditch west of South Bend on Sunday.

ALLIES PENETRATE GERMAN TRENCHES 500 YARDS.

Maurepas and Clerly Important Points Held by the Germans, Are in Danger.

London, Aug. 18.—The French and British, striking with terrific force in three directions on the Somme front, have stormed nearly three miles of German trenches, driving forward at points to a depth of 800 to 500 yards.

The most important gains were made by the British and French troops striking north from the point where the allied lines meet, Maurepas and Clerly, two of the most important points held by the Germans in this sector, have been flanked on both sides, according to the official statement issued by Paris on Wednesday.

The road has also been reached between Maurepas and Guillefont, the latter town being the immediate objective of the British. This advance, if maintained, brings the allied front directly in front of the large railroad town of Comblis.

South of the Somme the French stormed German trenches over a length of about three-quarters of a mile, driving forward in a southerly direction from Belloy-en-Santerre. Paris reports that a considerable number of prisoners were taken in these operations.

Progressives to Make Indiana Capital National Headquarters for Coming Campaign.

Indianapolis, Aug. 10.—Indianapolis probably will be the national headquarters of the Progressive party as far as all practical purposes are concerned during the coming campaign. Edwin M. Lee, the Indiana state chairman, has moved into new offices, which are announced as the "headquarters of the Progressive national committee." To what extent the Progressives will enter into the national campaign has not been determined fully. Mr. Lee says, but a fight is to be made in some states. As soon as the national committee membership is completed by Acting National Chairman Hale of Boston, a meeting probably will be held here.

WILSON VETOES ARMY BILL

President Resents Clause Exempting Retired Officers From Discipline—Reintroduced by Hay.

Washington, Aug. 21.—President Wilson vetoed the army appropriation bill on Friday. At the same time he sent to the house a lengthy message making it plain that this action was entirely due to the incorporation into the measure of the provision that retired officers should not be subject to the articles of war.

Chairman James Hay of the house military affairs committee reintroduced the army appropriation bill in the house with the entire articles of war provision eliminated, within half an hour after the president's veto had been received.

NATIONAL CAPITAL AFFAIRS

Putting Postal Guide Among the "Best Sellers"

WASHINGTON.—As a book and magazine seller the government has not always kept the prices of its wares down to a point where the pocket-books of the rank and file of its citizens would not be strained by acquiring them. As a result some publications, the wide dissemination of which would be for the public good, such as the Congressional Record and a number of departmental reference books, have had a relatively narrow circle of readers.

One of the latter is the United States Official Postal Guide, which is filled with information of great importance to individual as well as commercial users of the mails. It has sold for $3.50 and $3 a copy with monthly supplements, and a very small percentage of postal patrons have felt justified in buying it. Believing that greater use of the volume will make for greater efficiency in the utilization of the complicated mail facilities, the post office department has taken steps to place the guide in the list of "best sellers" among government volumes by radically reducing the price. Instead of $3.50, the maximum price for the best bound of the books with all supplements will be 75 cents, while abridgments constituting a postal handbook sufficiently comprehensive for most users can be obtained for as little as 15 cents.

The department is anxious to have its constructive step accomplish the desired purpose, and hopes that a copy of the heretofore little known guide will soon be found in the office of every concern engaged in domestic or foreign business, every school and institution, and, in fact, in the hands of every person who makes use of the postal service. Persons who use extensively the parcel post will find the guide of special value, the department believes. The disbursing clerk of the post office department in Washington is the subscription agent for the government's new low-cost guide book.

Last Sculptures Placed on the National Capitol

AT LAST the pediment of the east portico of the house of representatives' wing of the capitol has been adorned with its sculptured group. The figures which Paul Wayland Bartlett has been engaged upon since 1909 have finally been carved and settled in their final places.

It is gratifying in these days of supreme patriotic interest to know that the whole piece of work, from start to finish, is essentially American. Mr. Bartlett is a native son, despite his close association with France and French art. The figures themselves symbolize phases of American life and their treatment emphasizes this in their minor details, facts which are singularly representative of this country and its ideals. Lastly, the group has been cut from Georgia marble in preference to the generally used Italian marble, and this is a completing touch to the general keynote of Americanism.

The general theme of the group is the democracy of the United States as expressed in types of her working people. This is distinctively an American conception, and is in line with Mr. Bartlett's desire to escape the banality of much of the modern sculpture which relies solely on classical types for expressions of American ideals.

The entire group may be divided for purposes of description into three sections, though the general theme is so dominant throughout that all the parts are fused into a harmonious whole. The central group expresses the idea of Peace protecting Genius, and the armed figure of Peace, a majestic woman, clad in a coat of mail and draped about with a mantle, extends a protecting right arm over the winged and youthful figure of Genius, who nestles on the floor at her feet, holding aloft a flaming torch, the light of his power.

Sustaining this group on either side are the figures which represent, on the right, agricultural and pastoral life and, on the left, the industrial life of the shop and foundry.

Uncle Sam Will Seek Heirs to Many Millions

THE United States government is planning to aid in the task of finding missing heirs to the millions of dollars of unclaimed accounts which are lying dormant in national banks throughout the country. Consideration is being given to the problem of discovering the rightful owners of unclaimed money by the treasury department. It is announced, and as a result of the work hundreds of poor people may be enriched in a manner which will give material to fiction writers.

The comptroller of the currency's office has estimated that unclaimed bank accounts to the extent of millions of dollars are lying in banks merely because persons who have a rightful claim to the funds are unaware of their existence. The plan to restore this money will provide for a system of advertising by banks of lists of accounts which have lain dormant for a period of years to be determined upon. Falling in this manner to find claimants who can prove ownership, the money will escheat to either the state or federal government and probably be used for philanthropic purposes. Officials recognize the opportunity for fraud in the claiming of accounts, but the legislation planned will throw safeguards around unclaimed funds which will require presentation of evidence indubitably establishing identity.

Officials state that these unclaimed accounts arise largely through the deposit of money by men without their wives' or heirs' knowledge. Sudden death intervenes and leaves no connecting link of information, so the account goes unclaimed. Some American banks have unclaimed accounts half a century old and more, it is stated.

How Government Clerks Cut the Cost of Living

"SPECIALIZE, get your money in advance and cut the corners on handling, is the only way to conduct co-operative buying to a successful end," is the advice of G. K. Weston, who buys certain products of the farm and staple groceries for more than a thousand government clerks, and thereby cuts the cost of living for each family from $15 to $25 a month.

A saving of from $15,000 to $25,000 a month on the cost of living to a thousand of the eighteen hundred members of a single club sounds exaggerated, and yet it is being done by that number of the employees of Uncle Sam.

Mr. Weston was employed by Secretary Lane, president, and other officers of the Home club, made up of employees of the department of the interior, to manage the club. He has long been a student of social economy, and, coming in contact with large bodies of government employees through being in the government himself, and then through his work for the club, set himself about solving the problem of the high cost of living, not by doing without necessities, which is the usual suggestion, but studying a way of spending a certain amount of money to get the most good out of it.

His one idea was to form a connection between the producer and the consumer at just as little cost as possible; and it was with this idea that co-operative buying was taken up as a special feature of the Home club.

There was considerable controversy over the advance cash system when it was first suggested to the officers of the club, even Secretary Lane putting in his protest. But at a meeting of the club directors Mr. Weston so ably presented his reasons for such an unheard-of proposition that he carried his point. The special plea for this pay-in-advance proposition is that it saves much time, and enables the manager to accompany his order with cash. The value of the latter is seen at a glance and the time saved is almost incalculable.

HAWKS OF BAD CHARACTER

Edward B. Clark tells about those birds of prey in America whose bad habits outweigh the good points. Sharp-shinned and cooper hawks are the worst culprits. Look out for them.

PICTURES FROM BIOLOGICAL SURVEY, U.S. DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE

It is an easy task, but not altogether a congenial one, to write about the hawks of America in whose lives the evil outweighs the good. When one sets down black marks against a bird's character he invites death for the bird, and this is not a pleasant thing to do for one who believes that the interest which a bird of evil disposition adds to the general scheme of life ought to be sufficient to save the species from extermination, even if it dearly loves a chicken for dinner and a song bird for breakfast.

It is easy to write about the injurious hawks of this country because there are so few of them. Most of our birds of prey, the hawks and the owls, do more good than harm. There are only a scant half dozen or so into whom nature has implanted the desire for evil deeds. Nature is supposed to do everything, or at any rate almost everything, well and so it may be that if we kill the bold buccaneer birds who do a bit of thieving now and then, we may rue it one day for some reason not yet disclosed to the human mind.

The scientists tell us that perhaps the two most injurious hawks in America are the sharp-shinned and the cooper hawks. These two birds do a large part of the thieving which the farmers of the country lay at the door of the soaring hawk, the red-tailed, the red-shouldered, and some others.

The sharp-shinned gentleman, called Acceptor velox, by the ornithologists, is, as somebody has put it, "a brute of a bird." Vernon Bailey of the biological survey of the department of agriculture has written thus about this bird of more than questionable life:

"Among the hawks, the sharp-shinned is a veritable bushwhacker. His light body, short wings, and long tail enable him to double and turn among the brush and branches, and in a noiseful, foxlike way, pounce over a hedgerow or brush heap into the midst of a flock of sparrows, swoop under the low branches and pick his bird from the ground, or dart through the treetops and snatch one in midair from the midst of a startled flock. His small size is so much more than compensated by his audacity that one bird often becomes the terror of the poultry yard, taking the small and half-grown chickens regularly, and sometimes killing and eating a full-grown hen of many times its own weight."

I once saw a sharp-shinned hawk swoop down into a flock of English sparrows on one of the crowded corners of the city of Chicago. A trolley car was thundering along at the moment the sharp-shinned made its descent. It missed its prey, much to my disappointment, for I don't like English sparrows, and I have a sneaking admiration for the bold bird which dares to make a try for its breakfast no matter what perils impend.

The Cooper hawk, called by the scientists Acceptor cooperi, is just as much of a villain, if you want to look at him that way, as is his brother Acceptor, surnamed velox. This bird is just as daring as the sharp-shinned, and being somewhat larger is able to attack successfully larger prey. Dr. A. K. Fisher, the foremost American authority on the birds of prey, has this to say about the freebooter under discussion:

"Cooper's hawk, which resembles the sharp-shinned hawk closely in everything except size, is less northern in its distribution. . . . The food of this hawk, like that of its smaller congener, consists almost entirely of wild birds and poultry, though from its superior size and strength it is able to cope successfully with much larger birds, and hence is much more to be dreaded. . . . The flight of this species is very rapid, irregular, and usually is carried at no great height from the ground, in all these particulars closely resembling that of the sharp-shinned hawk."

One of the most destructive of the American birds of prey is the goshawk, otherwise Acceptor atricapillus. The goshawk is a big bird, something more than a foot and a half in length, and seemingly it has the strength of—well we won't say ten, but two. Its nesting place is either in the mountains or way up in the northern regions. It preys on game birds and rabbits in the summer season and in the winter it comes southward from its summer home to take its pick of the fat poultry of the land. The goshawk is a daring and a hardy bird. It typifies the wild life of mountain and plain, and as such it seemingly might be allowed to keep its place in nature's plan, but sentiment usually is allowed to count for little when the loss of a prize rooster or hen is in the other side of the balance.

Now we get away from the accepters and get into the Genus Falco. The duck hawk, Falco peregrinus anatum, is a true falcon. Florence Merriam Bailey, in her "Handbook of Birds of the Western United States," says that the duck hawk ranks next to the goshawk as a fierce bird of prey. According to my way of looking at it, bad as the bird is, any man who shoots it ought to be shot himself. The duck hawk has that high courage which ought to appeal to everybody who has red blood in him on his own account.

The duck hawk flies as swift and as straight as the proverbial arrow. No poultry raiser has any grudge against this falcon, for it disdains tame and humble quarry and lives like an epicure almost wholly upon game. The duck hawk will strike down in mid air a bird of twice its weight, and it will overtake the swiftest winged duck that flies. He is a pirate and everything else that is bad, but he lives the free and untrammelled life which nature taught him to live and so it is necessary to kill something, go and kill nature.

There probably are no injurious hawks in the United States except those which have been named. Of course this qualified statement may be disputed, but for the most part our hawks are known to be largely beneficial and concerning those about which there is some doubt the balance of good and evil seems to be just about even. The hawks that have been named and in part described are, as one might say, the worst of the bunch.

BEING WELL IS AN ASSET

Physical Health Is Beginning to Be Recognized at Its Real Value to the Community.

"Health insurance legislation will be introduced here very shortly if America as a progressive democracy is going to compete successfully in the world's markets and at the same time conserve the stamina of her workers."

This opinion was expressed by Felix M. Warburg of the banking house of Kuhn, Loeb and company, brother of Paul M. Warburg of the federal reserve board. He was referring especially to the health insurance bill brought out by the American association for labor legislation this year. Mr. Warburg explains his interest in health insurance by his first-hand acquaintance with its working in Germany.

"I lived in Germany at the time the law for health insurance was passed and put into operation and the effect from what I have been told has been excellent," he said. "It is only by means of a system of universal health insurance that the service of advanced medical science can be brought to the care of the workers as a whole, while at the same time the payment of joint contributions brings economic pressure to bear on the state, the employers and the worker himself to prevent disease. In other words, under health insurance all parties concerned are made to feel the cash value of good health."

GALE HITS SOLDIERS

TROOPS AT BROWNSVILLE, TEX., FORCED TO FLEE TENTS AND TAKE REFUGE IN CITY HALL.

70-MILE WIND BLOWING

Millitamen From Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Virginia Seek Shelter in Courthouse—Ten on Steamer Lost—Many Homes Wrecked.

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 21.—United States soldiers and National Guardsmen stationed at Fort Brown were driven from their quarters and took refuge in the city hall and other public buildings at Brownsville, on account of the gulf coast storm which hit that section on Friday, according to meager reports received over the army wireless at Fort Sum Houston from Fort Brown. The wind was blowing 70 miles an hour.

A terrific and destructive wind, according to this report, has wrought havoc in Brownsville and in the military camp. Those troops which took refuge in the courthouse were the Illinois, Iowa and Virginia regiments. They took two days' rations. All wires are down.

Gov. Edward F. Dunne of Illinois and staff, who have spent two days in Brownsville, left San Antonio for Houston.

The steamship Pilot Boy of the Texas & Gulf line foundered in the high seas running off Port Aransas, Tex., according to Galveston reports. Three of her crew of 13 reached the shore, it is reported. Nothing has been heard of the others.

The exodus from the city of Galveston to the mainland continues, but local authorities still believe there is no local danger.

The wind accompanying the storm reached a velocity of 70 miles an hour at Corpus Christi during the afternoon and was carrying everything movable before it. A heavy sea was running in Corpus Christi bay. In the north beach portion of that city scores of summer cottages were demolished.

A rush of water over Camp Cotton at El Paso drove about 500 men of the Thirty-first Michigan Infantry out of their tents. The entire First battalion had to move away. The tentless doubled up with other companions or slept in box cars.

SHIPPING BILL IS PASSED

Measure Appropriating $50,000,000 Wins in Senate—Child Labor Bill Approved.

Washington, Aug. 21.—The administration shipping bill, creating a shipping board and appropriating $50,000,000 for its use in government purchase or operation of ships, was passed by the senate by a strict party vote of 83 to 21. It already had passed the house in a slightly different form.

An effort by Senator Borah to attach the immigration bill to the measure as a rider was defeated, 22 to 37.

The child labor bill was finally passed without debate or record vote in the house. Senate amendments were accepted without change. It now goes to the president. Final action on the Philippine bill promising independence to the islands as soon as a stable government is established, was taken in the house when the conference report was adopted and the measure prepared for President Wilson's signature, which is the only action remaining to make it a law.

SAVAGE ATTACKS IN BALKANS

Bulgarian Official Report Says Charges of Allies Were Repulsed—Large Forces Employed.

London, Aug. 19.—Heavy fighting on the Balkan front is reported in an official Bulgarian statement received here from Sofia. The allied forces delivered strong infantry attacks, but, the statement says, were repulsed. The fighting occurred in the region of Lake Dolan, northwest of Saloniki, near the Greece-Serbian border. Several encounters have taken place in this vicinity of late, but the official Bulgarian statement indicates that larger forces are being employed against the Bulgarians.

SENATE O. K.'S ISLAND BILL

Philippine Measure Approved With Amendment Providing Provisional Independence.

Washington, Aug. 18.—The Philippine bill as reported from conference, with the Clarke amendment providing for independence of the islands within four years eliminated but containing a promise of freedom whenever the Filipinos have demonstrated their ability to maintain a stable government, finally was approved by the senate on Wednesday.

Philippine Bill to President

Washington, Aug. 21.—The house by a vote of 84 to 39 on Friday adopted the conference report on the Philippine bill. It has passed the senate and now goes to President Wilson for his signature.

City the of Saints

CITY AND COUNTY BUILDING

USUALLY it's the young school man who pre-empt the seat next the driver of the sight-seeing auto, who asks the question: "Is polygamy really extinct among these Mormons?" The others behind strain their ears, for they've been dying to make the same query. You see, in Salt Lake City you never can tell. Our own guide about the city, for example, was an intelligent young Mormon who was born under the system, writes Felix J. Koch in the Utica Globe.

In reply they tell you volubly and vaguely that the United States courts have declared polygamy to be illegal, and the Mormon church itself some short time after promulgated an edict forbidding its practice.

Visitors to Salt Lake City naturally seek first of all the "holy of holies" of Mormonism, the Temple block. This, if nothing else, makes one admit that a people, born of polygamy, who can accomplish such wonders as just this structure here, are undoubtedly the peers of many monogamous races. Out on what was the desert at the time of the Mormons' coming, in a desert which tires the traveler even as he glides across it now by railway, there is a city that is as beautiful as any in the land. And its most beautiful thing is this Temple block.

You enter by one of the large gates built of wooden gratings and come upon a small brick structure housing the bureau of information and headquarters for guides. The steps lead up between two lions into the little structure. Then comes an array of chairs, covered over when not in service. On beyond you face the monster arena of pews, yellow, long, smooth benches these, in four endless series, stretching back from the rail; their evenness broke only by a curious series of yellow posts, richly veined, that extend back in severe rows to support the balcony.

Well over that balcony slopes the curious arched roof, one of the greatest arches of its sort in existence. Down from it depend great chandeliers to illumine the chamber. At the heart of the roofing two skylights, square cut, accentuate to the eye the height of this ceiling, as well as reveal its thickness.

Temple All of Wood.

Meanwhile your guide tells how all the structure was put up of wood, and this at a time when the builders were 1,000 miles from a railway. A people that could erect such a thing as this, whether born in polygamy or not, is not to be despised. Nor has it failed to keep pace with the times. The organ, for example, is run by electricity, and a people who will invest in an organ of 5,500 pipes, ranging from half an inch to 35 feet in size, cannot be lacking in culture.

Far down at the front of the organ the three seats await the presiding officers. Sometimes 22 presiding officers are marshaled here. The system maintained in the church government, especially considering the numbers governed, is marvelous. Not even the splendidly organized Roman Catholic church has ever attempted to exact a ture reserved to this end; beds of palm and cacti are banked at either side, and ahead broad cement walks seem to invite you to obtain your cleerone and explore.

With a "sister of the church" as guide, you start. Out in the court she halts to tell the story of the sea gulls, to whose memory the new statue is in course of erection, then continues on to the great granite churchlike building that serves as assembly hall. Within the church body is divided by two long aisles, simple walls of white plastering, reaching up to the roof. The interior is not as large as the Tabernacle, and so suits certain purposes better.

The Mammoth Organ.

The assembly hall has a notable new mammoth organ, concerts on which also draw crowds. Just before it the arrangement is typical of Mormon assembly houses. High above, the ceiling is attractive, too, being divided into sections by curving ridges of a heavy wood. Throughout the assembly hall will bear comparison with church structures in any part of the world.

Crossing the court once more, you learn more of the Mormons. No stated time for worship is set by them. Prayer may be held at any time.

The entrance to this huge Tabernacle is the more unique because so insignificant. Just a small rear door, reached by a wee step. Thence on, up similar stairs, you pass, to the heart of the great Tabernacle. You emerge on a platform that allows you to survey the vast spaces. Just before you is the area for the choir, behind you other series of chairs tier up to the big organ. The instrument is of heavy wood; the great pipes gilded and over them all hangs the legend, "Welcome to Utah." Before the pulpit, close at hand, a large leather bench has position reserved to this end; beds of palm and cacti are banked at either side, and ahead broad cement walks seem to invite you to obtain your cleerone and explore.

Your guide explains the division of the Church of Mormon here, while you fix the picture in your memory. You note the strange spottings caused by age upon the ceiling above; you note the strange chandeliers more closely.

By and by you take the steps to the balcony, occupying one of the innumerable seats that range back from the rail. You look straight across to the organ front, to realize distances here, then recall how the gallery is built back some two feet and a half from the wall in order to better the acoustics. Off in the distance, 200 feet or more from where you sit, a janitor, busy cleaning, drops a pin on the rail and you hear it quite distinctly. He rubs his hands and you catch the sound as though you stood close by. All this, remember, is not result of chance, but careful planning by the Mormons.

In Utah today church and state are distinct and separate and all offices of government are open to Mormon and non-Mormon. As result, the state levies its tax on the Mormon, and this he has to meet, along with his church tax. Despite this double taxation Utah folk bear up well and flourish. Salt Lake City has shops, homes, streets the equal of any in the land. In fact, there is a certain cleanliness, freshness and charm to it that delight and that cause the traveler to tarry, again and again in the "City of the Saints," as it is called.

For State's Attorney

As the day of the primaries is rapidly drawing near, just so rapidly is the political pot of Lake County nearing the boiling point. Now a days we hear little conversation that does not sooner or later turn to the topic of the election of some one to fill the office of State's Attorney. Pursuing the conversation we find that the speaker is invariably in favor of the re-election of Ralph J. Dady.

Eight years ago when Mr. Dady received his first nomination to that office many called it an accident and just a streak of political luck, but when his first term had expired and he asked the voters of Lake County to again place him in that office, these same people who had called him an accident were the first to step forward in his behalf. A close study of his first term having proven him to be a fearless, fair minded official whose oath of office was his guiding star, and one who did not swerve from the path of duty to save friend or crush foe. He was elected by the people to serve the people and so he had done along fair and impartial lines. With this kind of a record to his credit, he was accorded the honor of a second term, and in the past four years he has not disappointed those who have placed their confidence in him.

Now, once more, he asks for re-election and Lake County voters seem more than willing and anxious to give it to him. His record as a prosecuting attorney has been beyond reproach, he has dealt fairly and squarely by all. Controlled by no man, receiving dictation from no faction, he has dispatched the duties of his office in a capable and efficient manner, untinted with favoritism or partiality. His opponents raise the cry of "Dadyism". Well, Dadyism is good enough for Lake County, and lets have four more years of it.

The Senatorship

The Eighth Senatorial District composed of Lake, McHenry and Boone counties is this year to have the choice of two candidates to place in the Senatorial Chair. One is a McHenry county man, the present Senator A. J. Olson of Woodstock, the other is a Lake county man, R. B. Swift of Libertyville. Will Lake County stand by its own candidate? We predict not. The large majority that Lake County will hand to A. J. Olson coupled with the strength of his own county and the compliments of little Boone will land him back in the senate with out even so much as a scratch to show that he has been through a political scrap.

Among Lake County's leading politicians not one could be found who would attempt to besiege the strong hold of Mr. Olson, and almost up to the last moment it seemed he would be unopposed. Then Rodney B. Swift of Libertyville stepped in, backed by the cry of "Lake County's turn to be represented" and is attempting to carry away the honors now held by Mr. Olson. Can he do it? He can not. Mr. Olson with his showing as a senator from this district, with the recognition he has gained at Springfield, with his record of honesty and general reputation unquestioned, is a hard man to defeat. He has labored for the best interest of his district, irrespective of county, and that his work has been fully appreciated will be proven at the primaries. Mr. Swift, mixed up, as he is at present, in a turmoil of the milk producers association, will have some fight on his hands to make even a showing against such a representative as Mr. Olson has proven himself to be. What matters it that he lives in McHenry County as long as he represents Lake County well. Our Motto is "The Best man for the place no matter where he lives"

What I Would Do
As Governor

I. LEGISLATION

If nominated and elected governor, I will use all the legitimate power of that office, including appeal to public opinion, to promote forward-looking legislation for progress in human welfare, for social and industrial justice, and for having our state do its part in the cause of "America prepared and America efficient."

In efforts to secure practical results in legislation I shall apply to each situation the fruits of my ten years' experience in the state legislature—eight years as a member of the House and two years as a member of the Senate.

To promote the basic prosperity of all the people, and in view of the fact that food comes from the soil, I favor legislation that will foster the increase in soil fertility throughout the state, particularly through the development of the agricultural college at the State University and the Farmers' Institute, through which scientific information on agriculture and home-making is disseminated.

To protect women and children engaged in industrial and commercial pursuits I favor legislation, based upon an accurate knowledge of the facts regarding conditions in the various classes of industry, for shortening the working hours for women and for extending the period of years during which children shall be kept in attendance at school.

I favor legislation for increase in vocational training—industrial and agricultural education—both during the regular school period and through continuation schools for youths and adults who have passed that period.

I favor the general proposition that all men and women who work for wages should have one day of rest in seven.

I favor legislation to promote the health, comfort and general welfare of all who labor.

To further the cause of increasing human efficiency and the cause of home rule, I favor the enactment of a county local option law.

I favor legislation to restore to the City of Chicago home rule in the regulation of public utilities in that city.

To protect our elections from abuse and to prevent corruption, I favor the passage of an effective corrupt practices act.

To reduce the scope of the spoils system, I favor legislation to extend the existing state civil service law, and also the enactment of a comprehensive Cook County Civil Service law.

To reduce the cost of government, I favor legislation for the consolidation of overlapping commissions and offices and the creation of an effective budget system.

To bring about complete woman's suffrage, the short ballot, home rule for Chicago in local affairs, and progress in reference to the fundamental law of our state, I favor the calling of a constitutional convention.

II. ADMINISTRATION

In general, if nominated and elected governor I will fulfill the duties of the office in the interests of the whole people, and not with a bias for any special or local interest.

I will be the governor of no faction, no city, or no section, but the governor of the whole people of the state of Illinois.

I will select for the appointive offices only honest, efficient men, in sympathy with the laws they are charged to enforce. I have made no patronage promises.

I will strive to cut down the cost of government, to eliminate waste and graft and to carry on the fiscal affairs of the state with the same close attention to modern business methods that I would follow in my private business.

Work and Vote for Hull

Tell men you meet about Hull and his 10-year record. How he led the long fight that brought Direct Primaries and Civil Service to Illinois. His work for Labor—for Shorter Hours for Women—for the Workmen's Compensation Act—for Insurance Safeguards—for the Anti-Grain Law—for regenerating State Institutions—for the Pure Food Laws—for ending gas rule—for Anti-Loss Shark Laws—for a survey of Pension Legislation—for better Legislative Methods—for Efficiency in State Management—these are only a few of the many constructive acts which Senator Hull fostered. Illinois needs him to carry the task of Good Government forward.

Send us your name and address today. We'll tell you how you can help win with Hull.

are the vital questions—and not whether in my zeal to protect the farmer, against an illy-conceived Milk Marketing Company, I was forced to call the attention of the members of the Milk Producers' Association to the fact that its Directors and some others take pay for each little job done—and hence I may have their enmity.

The Independent Harvester Co. and its squander of $7,000,000 of the farmers' money is not so old nor so far away as to be forgotten.

It is 12 years since Senator Olson first went to Springfield. In that year it cost $16,000,000 to run the affairs of this State. In 1915 it cost $46,000,000. This is not all growth—much is waste.

Your Pocketbook

The squandering spirit and the demand for "pickings" is abroad in the land. It is time to call a halt.

In 1911 two private relief bills were passed that took $8,600. In 1915 twenty-five were passed that took $144,000. One of Sen. Olson's relief bills was vetoed by the Governor, and more than 40 were introduced.

RODNEY B. SWIFT
Farmer and Business Man

In 1911 it cost to run the Attorney General's office, $256,000. In 1915 it cost $541,000. The expense accounts of Committees during the last session reached sums that were outrageous. One Committee put in a bill for railroad and Pullman fares for 8 1/2 days of $1,922. The Senator and Representative heading the Committee put in a joint bill for expenses of $3,487.35. The taxpayers' money was wasted like water.

When Senators get into cliques and won't protest and fight such expenses, they would better be replaced by men who can and will.

FRANK O. LOWDEN
MAN FOR GOVERNOR

Sentiment of the State Shows Him as Choice of Majority of Republican Voters.

Frank O. Lowden will be nominated as the Republican candidate for governor in the primary election to be held in Illinois, Wednesday, September 13.

Sentiment in every part of the state demonstrates it. It is confidently predicted he will have a larger vote principles and his ideals are those created in the invigorating atmosphere of the country.

Made Friends By Conduct. While a candidate for Governor in the now famous deadlocked convention of 1904 and defeated for the nomination, he made hundreds of friends throughout the state. Knowing the circumstances and witnessing the many ways in which he accepted the situation, he established a close personal friendship with men all over the state than has been possessed by any other man in Illinois public life in years. Col. Lowden did not allow his disappointment to interfere with the full performance of his duty to the nominees. He was one of the hardest workers in the campaign for the success of the party.

A Worker in Every Campaign. In every campaign since he has been giving valuable service. He has filled every speaking assignment asked of him. The people know him as a worker, not a self-seeker. His course has brought to him the friendship and admiration of thousands of Republicans throughout the state and today, believing Col. Lowden has earned the nomination for Governor, they are for him.

Active in Public Affairs. Col. Lowden is a man of action and advanced thought. His experience in public affairs has not been limited to service in the restricted opportunities of a state legislature nor in holding of appointive office. He has declined all offers of this sort. He did serve his district in congress and he made an enviable record that has left its impress upon legislation that is today of benefit to the people of the nation.

Principles Above Office. Big, brainy, high principled and scholarly gentleman that he is, he is conducting a campaign free from attacks upon other candidates. Remembering there is an election in November, as well as a primary nomination in September, he is not asking the people for support upon false issues, misleading or a discussion of other candidates. He is pointing out the burdens of conditions in the state and telling the remedies he will apply to give the highest efficiency of government in Illinois for the lowest cost to the taxpayers.

Every Republican in Illinois can support and vote for Frank O. Lowden for Governor on that kind of a platform.

than all other candidates for the place. This is a well-merited recognition of Col. Lowden's pledges to the people of Illinois. He has for many years been recognized as one of the leading Republicans of the state. As a man he is actuated by the highest prin-

The IDYL of TWIN FIRES WALTER PRICHARD EATON

SYNOPSIS.

I grow tired of my work as a college instructor and buy a New England farm on sight. I inspect my farm and go to board at Bert Temple's. Bert helps me to hire a carpenter and a farmer. Hard Cider, the carpenter, estimates the repairs and changes necessary on the house. Mike and commences plowing. I start to prune the orchard trees. Hard Cider builds book-cases around the twin fireplaces. Mrs. Temple hires Mrs. Pillig for me as a housekeeper, and announces the coming of a new boarder from New York, a half-sick young woman who needs the country air. I discover that Stella Goodwin will make a delightful companion and believe she ought not to return to the hot and dusty city for a long time. I squeeze her hand shyly. Together we dedicate "Twin Fires." I surprise her wedding in the brook and enjoy a beautiful thrill.

What makes home—a well-furnished house, quiet, lonesome, cared for by servants; or the sound of children's laughter, the barking of playful pups, the rattle of dishes in the kitchen and the contented humming of a wife in love with her husband?

"Oh, forgive me," she answered. "I didn't realize. The path has made it look different, I guess. Forgive me." She spoke very low, and her voice was quivering. Did it mean so much to her? A sudden pang went through my heart—and then a sudden hot wave of joy—and then sudden doubts. I was silent. So was the thrush. Presently I touched her hand again, gently. "Come," said I, "we have scared him with our chopping. He will come back, though, and then we will walk down the clean path, making no noise, and hear him sing."

"Nice path," she said, "to come out of your door, through your orchard, and wander up a path by a brook, through your own pines! Oh, fortunate mortal!"

"And find Diana wading in a pool," I added.

Again she shot an odd, questioning look at me, and shook her head. Then she ran into the south room and put the books back on the shelves.

"Which one did you read, Marius or Alice?" I asked.

"Neither," she smiled, as I looked the house behind us.

CHAPTER X.

Advent of the Pilligs.

The next day it was raining. I set off alone to make ready for the arrival of the Pilligs. I was standing on my kitchen porch talking to Mike when they arrived. It was a memorable moment. I heard the sound of wheels, and looked up. A wagon was approaching, driven by an old man. Beside him, beneath a cotton umbrella, sat a thin woman in black, with gray hair and a worried look. Behind them, on a battered trunk, sat Peter, who was not thin, who wore no worried look, and who chewed gum. Beneath the wagon, invisible at first, trotted a mud-spattered yellow pup. The wagon stopped.

"Good morning, Mr. Upton," said Mrs. Pillig. "This is me and Peter."

"Where's Buster?" said Peter.

At the word Buster, the yellow pup emerged from beneath the cart, wagging the longest tail, in proportion to the dog, ever seen on a canine. It would be more correct to say that the tall wagged him, for with every excited motion his whole body was undulated to the ears, to counter-balance that tail.

I went out and aided Mrs. Pillig to alight, and then Mike and I lifted the trunk to the porch. I looked at the dog, which had also joined us on the porch, where he was leaving muddy paw marks.

"Do I understand that Buster is also an arrival?" said I.

"Oh, dear me, Mr. Upton, you must excuse me," Mrs. Pillig cried anxiously. "Mrs. John Barker's boy Leslie gave Buster to Peter a month ago, and of course I sent him right back, but he wouldn't stay back, and yesterday we took him away again, and this morning he just suddenly appeared behind the wagon, and I told Peter he couldn't come, and Peter cried, and Buster wouldn't go back, and I'll make Peter take him away just as soon as the rain stops."

"Well, I hadn't bargained on Buster, that's a fact," said I. I didn't like dogs; most people don't who've never had one. But he was such a forlornly muddy mongrel pup, and so eloquent of fall, that I spoke his name on an impulse, and put out my hand. The great tall wagged him to the ears, and with the friendliest of undulations he was all at once close to me, with his nose in my palm. Then he suddenly sat up on his hind legs, dangled his front paws, looked me square in the eyes, and barked.

That was too much for me. "Peter," said I, "you may keep Buster."

"Golly, I'd 'a' had a hard time not to," said that young person, immediately making for the barn, with Buster at his heels.

Mrs. Pillig and I went inside. While she was inspecting the kitchen, Mike and I carried her trunk up the back stairs.

"I hope your bed comes today," said

"Well, Well, You've Got Yourself a Booky."

began to leave mud tracks all over the freshly-painted floor, so that we had to grab him up and wipe his paws with a rag. Peter held him while I wiped, and we fell to laughing, and forgot Montana.

"You'll have to get rubbers for him," said I.

The idea amused Peter tremendously. "Gee, rubbers on a dog!" he cried. "Buster'd eat 'em off in two seconds. Say, where's Buster goin' to sleep?"

We had to turn aside on our way downstairs for more furniture to make Buster a bed in a box full of excelsior in the shed. We put him in it, and went back to the porch. Buster followed us. We took him back, and put him in the box once more. He whacked the sides with his tail, as if he enjoyed the game—and jumped out as soon as we turned away.

"Gee, he's too wide awake now," said Peter.

So we fell over Buster for the rest of the morning. I never saw a dog before nor since who could so successfully get under your feet as Buster. When I scolded him, he undulated his silly yellow body, sprang upon his hind legs, and licked my hands. If I tried to kick him, he regarded it as a game, and bit my shoe lace. Peter's shoe laces, I noted, were in shreds. But Buster disappeared after a time, and Peter and I got the china and kitchenware all in, and Mrs. Pillig had it washed and in the cupboard before he reappeared. He came down the front stairs with one of my bath slippers in his mouth, and with a profoundly proud undulation of tail and body, laid it at my feet for me to throw, barking loudly. We all laughed, but I took the slipper and bent him with it, while Peter appeared on the verge of tears.

"No, Buster," I cried. "You keep out of doors. Peter, put him out."

Peter resentfully deposited the pup on the porch, and took my slipper back upstairs. Meanwhile, Buster, after looking wistfully through the screen door a second, pushed it open with his nose and paw and re-entered, immediately sitting up on his hind legs and gazing into my eyes with the most human look I ever saw.

"Buster," said I, "you are the limit. Very well, stay in. I give up!"

Buster plopped down on all fours, as if he understood perfectly, and took a bite at my shoe string. I patted his head. I had to. The pup was irresistible.

"And what time will you have your dinner?" asked Mrs. Pillig. "There's no meat in the house. Guess you forgot to order the butcher to stop; but there's eggs."

"Eggs will do," said I, "and one o'clock. Bert has his at twelve, but I want mine at one. Maybe I shall have a guest."

"A guest!" she cried. "You wouldn't be puttin' a guest on me the first mornin'!"

"Well, it's doubtful, I'm afraid," I answered. "Perhaps I'll wait till tomorrow night, and have three guests for supper—just Bert and his wife and their boarder—sort of a housewarming, you know. I want you to make a pie."

"Well, I reckon I can wait on table stylish enough for Mrs. Temple," said she, "and I'll make a lemon pie that'll make Bert Temple sorry he didn't marry me."

"I shouldn't want you to wreck Bert's domestic happiness," said I, "but make the pie, just the same!"

I went into the south room, and sat at my desk answering some letters, while I waited for dinner. I could hear the rattle of dishes in the kitchen—the first of those humble domestic sounds which we associate with the word home. Through the house, too, and in to me, floated the aroma of bacon and of coffee, faintly, just detectable, mingled with the smell of earth under June rain, which drifted through an open window. Presently I heard the front door open very softly. As I guessed that Peter had his instructions in behavior from his mother, I knew it must be Miss Goodwin. My pen poised suspended over the paper. I waited for her to enter the room, in a pleasant tangle of expectation. But she did not enter. Several minutes passed, and I got up to investigate, but there was no sign of her. The front door, however, stood ajar. Then Mrs. Pillig called "Dinner!"

I walked into my dining room, and sat down at the table, which was covered with a new tablecloth and adorned with my new china. Beside my plate was the familiar, old-fashioned silver I had eaten with when a boy, and the sight of it thrilled me. Then I spied the centerpiece—a glass vase bearing three fresh iris buds from the brook-side. Here was the secret, then, of the open door! Mrs. Pillig came in with the platter of eggs and bacon, and she, too, spied the flowers.

"Well, well, you've got yourself a booky," she said.

"Not I," was my answer. "They just came. Mrs. Pillig, there's a fairy lives in this house, a nice, thoughtful fairy, who does things like this. If you ever see her, don't be frightened."

Mrs. Pillig looked at me pityingly. "I'll bring your toast and coffee now," she said.

The coffee came in gleaming, and it was good coffee, much better than Mrs. Bert's. The eggs were good, too. But best of all was the centerpiece. She had come in so softly, and gone so quickly, and nobody had seen her! She had been present at my first meal in Twin Fires, after all, and so delicately present, just in the subtle fragrance of flowers and the warm token of thoughtfulness! My meal was a very happy one, happier even, perhaps, than it would have been had she sat opposite me in person. We are curious creatures, who can on occasion extract a sweeter pleasure from our dreams of others in loneliness than from their bodily presence. Mrs. Pillig fluttered in and out, to see if I was faring well, and though her service was not that of a trained waitress it sufficed to bring me dessert of some canned peaches, buried under my own rich cream, and to remind me that my wants were so meticulously cared for. Out on the porch I could see Peter playing with Buster and hear that ingratiating pup's yelps and canine delight. Before me stood the purple iris blossoms, with golden hearts just opening, their slender stems rising from the clear water in the vase, and spoke of her whose thought of me was so gracious, so delicately expressed, so warming to my heart. The spoon I held bore my mother's initials, reminding me of my childhood, of that other home before, since had broken up ten years before, when I had called no place home save my study and bedroom high above the college yard. I thought of the yard—pleasantly, but without regrets. I looked through the window as my last spoonful of dessert was eaten, and saw the sky breaking into blue. I folded my new napkin, put it into the old silver ring which bore the word "John" on the side, failed utterly to note the absence of a finger-bowl, and rose from my first meal in Twin Fires.

"I have a home again," said I, aloud. "I have a home again after ten years!"

Then I went up the road toward Bert's.

Does the secret visit to "Twin Fires" and the gift of fresh flowers indicate that Stella is truly in love with John and is ready to hear his proposal?

Keep Weeds Out of the Lawn.

KEEPING WEEDS OUT OF LAWN

If one gets a good set of grass in the beginning and keeps the ground fertilized by a coating of stable manure or commercial fertilizer every spring there will be little trouble with weeds if the lawn is kept properly mowed.

Some claim that there are weeds that cannot be clipped with the lawn mower. We have found this complaint true where the revolving mower was used, for it will bend and not cut wiry stems, as of crab grass and some other troublesome plants.

The only way of getting these is by clipping off with a mower that has a sickle similar to a hay mower. The guards of these machines raise up the stems and the sickle cuts them off without mashing down or pulling.

There is no need of using the hook so much if one is careful when getting a mower, to get one that cuts ahead of the wheels, and as wide as the extreme distance apart of the outside of the wheels.

This will not leave the strip along the borders that is mashed down by the wheels.

Moles do a great deal of damage, but may be run out by frequent rolling, or may be trapped.

These may be destroyed by pouring into the ant hills a tablespoonful of carbon bisulphid, stopping the hole so the fumes are confined.

ARTISTIC ARRANGEMENT OF FLOWERS IN HOME

By E. VAN BENTHUYSEN.

Dark corners of a room need lighting up, and light-colored, brilliant flowers never look so well as when standing out against a half light. Yellow is an exquisite bit of color for such a corner.

Let all the flowers and foliage for home decoration be fresh, and however simple their form, they are lovely, not only as graceful objects but as suggestive of something more beautiful still.

Avoid fantastic colored or shaped vases. The simple beauty of the flowers is lost in such a holder. Clear glass and the soft greens of Bohemian make are most useful receptacles. Let the lines of the vase or bowls be simple and flowing and however cheap the substance of which the vase is made we shall not err.

Strive to produce the effect of the flower when growing, and the error of cutting off the lovely gray-green stalks of daffodils and cramming them into a flat dish, or putting a handful of violets in a tube specimen glass will be impossible.

There are many little contrivances nowadays that help wonderfully in the attractive arrangement of flowers. The little Japanese frogs with holes in their backs that sit flat in the bottom of a bowl and hold out primly and gracefully a few precious stalks of bloom are to be had for a few cents and are well worth all they cost.

With such an arrangement three or four daffodils with their golden glow can bring a bit of sunshine into a dreary room and add a beauty that an armful of exquisite roses crammed into an ugly vase could never give.

Color harmony in flower arrangement should be well thought out, not only with regard to the relative position of one flower with another, but also with the room in which the vase is to have place.

Colors that blend out of doors, because of the gradations in shade caused by atmospheric effects and the relieving sprays of green, would produce discord when massed in a room, but inharmonious effects can be avoided by observing a few general rules.

Now that flowers can be secured the year round, the problem having been solved by the gardeners, after years of probing, some sort of bloom should have daily place in the house. The intimate association with such loveliness gladdens the heart and quickens the senses and inspires all that is best within us.

HIS MOTHER CAME FIRST

Flanice of Illinois Militiaman Had to Wait Outside the Camp Grounds.

While the mobilization of a certain Illinois regiment was under way women in the persons of relatives and friends of the Guardsmen flocked to the camp in such numbers that necessary work was hampered. Thereupon it is reported, the colonel issued orders that only one woman should be allowed to visit each member of the regiment.

One of the Guardsmen, not yet knowing of the order, approached the camp in company with his mother, a sister and his fiancée. The guard stopped the party and sternly asked who the women were. When told he answered:

"You can take in only one. It's up to you to choose."

"The young man looked for a moment at the three, and then said, 'mother.'"

When war is in the air humanity gets down to fundamentals, and when this is done mother will never get the worst of it. We do not believe that the young Guardsman will make a worse husband than if he had chosen his sweetheart. A man who can appreciate his mother may be expected to take good care of his wife.

So It Is.

"Cleanliness, you know, is next to godliness."

"Yes," said the man from Pittsburgh, "and out our way it's next to impossible."

Beware of the man who has a mania for offering apologies.

To the Voters of Lake County:—

In my candidacy for State's Attorney of Lake Co. I have encountered the opposition of the Anti-Saloon League of Illinois. The very day that Mr. F. Scott McBride, Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Illinois, wrote the letter endorsing Mr. Dady for State's Attorney of Lake Co., I met Ike Franklin, a colored man, who for several years has conducted a blind pig on the west side of Sheridan road near Washington St. in the City of Waukegan. I had already heard how Ike Franklin stood on the State's Attorneyship.

I said to him, "How are you going to be for State's Attorney this fall? I have, during my practice as a lawyer, defended a great many colored boys, some of them without compensation, and I think you ought to be with me."

He said to me: "I have nothing against you, but you know the business I am in and for several years Mr. Dady has protected me. I'm going to work and vote for him, the man who has stood for me. I am for Mr. Dady for State's Attorney."

In other words, a colored blind-pig keeper has been selling whisky, beer and gin at a little bar in the back of the colored club rooms in the city of Waukegan, while five men have languished in the county jail who were found guilty of selling sweet cider.

Mr. Voter, do you or do you not consider this condition of affairs a travesty on justice? The Waukegan Good Government League has endorsed Mr. Dady. Will some one inform us now how the Good Government League of Waukegan was organized? Are the members of this organization the only people in Waukegan that are interested in good government?

They have not considered you good enough, Mr. Voter, to be a member of that organization, and yet they ask you to follow blindly their endorsement without any suggestion as to how the club has been organized or to what extent the members thereof are consulted.

A man never places character witnesses on the witness stand unless he is accused of something. When it becomes necessary for so many organizations to endorse a man for office it rather appears that he has been accused of something.

In re-asserting my candidacy for State's Attorney of Lake Co. at this time I desire to prophesy that after the primaries of Sept. 13, 1916, no candidate for office will ever seek the endorsement of the Good Government League of Waukegan.

JAMES G. WELCH,

Candidate for State's Attorney subject to the Republican primaries, September 13, 1916.

To the Voters of Lake County:

I have been denied the privilege of seeing many of my personal friends and hundreds of voters of the county relative to my candidacy for State's Attorney, by being obliged to be in court almost every day since May 15th.

In the short time left it will be impossible for me to personally call upon all the voters of the county, so I take this means of addressing you and asking your support.

In submitting my candidacy to the voters of Lake County, I appeal to all voters whether "wet" or "dry" who expect and want a state's attorney to do his duty.

Every good citizen of the County bows in respect to law and believes in law enforcement. A State's Attorney has nothing to do with the making of any law, but it is his sworn duty to enforce all of the laws. This oath of office I have tried to respect and live up to, and in so doing have incurred the displeasure of those who have from time to time been prosecuted, particularly those directly interested in the illegal sale of intoxicating liquor.

As long as I am State's Attorney I will do my utmost duty to enforce all laws. To this position I feel no fair minded man can justly take exception for that is presumably what you elect a State's Attorney for.

If you feel I am worthy, I ask your support.

Respectfully yours,

RALPH J. DADY.

To the Voters of Lake County:

The Waukegan Good Government League unqualifiedly endorses the candidacy of Ralph J. Dady for nomination and re-election to the office of State's Attorney and Appeals to all voters of Lake County who believe in Law enforcement to unite in support of Mr. Dady.

The office of State's Attorney is the most important office in Lake County and Mr. Dady has shown that he is honest, able, fearless and industrious and he respects his oath of office.

Respectfully,

The Waukegan Good Government League
